SUMMARY OF ST. LOUIS MARKETS.

sence of domestic information an attempt was made to bolster prices on foreign news but there was not enough demand to maintain an advance. Though Liverpool was lower other foreign news seemed to favor the buying side. The most important came from France, where, it was said, the crops were being injured by excessive rains. As local receipts were light, the speculative crowd figured that this would do as well as anything else as a booster. Buying was fairly good in the first hour, but lack of outside interest and the practical suspension of export trade caused a subsequent decline. The market closed stendy at Friday's prices for September.

Corn was well taken early in the session on the strength of weather conditions. Rains were reported to have been excessive over a considerable portion of the belt. There was ession when wheat eased off, but the close was at slight advance.

ACUTE DEPRESSION NOTED IN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

PRICES FALL BELOW FRI DAY'S CLOSE ALL AROUND.

Trading Languid With Sluggish Movement, Most Transactions Originating in Board Room.

New York June 20.-To-day's stock market made some headway against early de-pression, which seems to be reflected from London, but the disappointing bank state ment carried prices to below last night's level all around.

The trading throughout was languid and the movement of prices very sluggish. Very few transactions were of an origin outside the board room. Some support seemed to be accorded to the United States Steel stocks and the coalers. The continuance of this year's schedule of prices for steel products and the announcement of the placing of large orders for steel rails helped the steel stocks and was an encouraging factor for the whole market.

There were some special points of weakness, notably smelting. Its decline of 2% was due to disappointment over the failure of divided action at the recent directors' inceting. The weather report from the corn test and the firmness of the cereal markets, as well as the rally in cotton had an unsatisfactory effect on stocks, and the reports of the danger of a passenger rate in the Northwest were not liked.

nority stockhoiders in the Southern Pacific against the Union Pacific interests disposed of the supposition that this dispute had been compromised. Reports from doston of a cut in Copper by a leading competitor depressed Amalgamated, Colorado Fuel was hurt by the vague rumors of a renewed eutbreak of internal dissensions over the control of the company.

Instead of the expected increase of $5.000.000 in the cash in the banks, the weekly statement shows a gain of only $1.358.800. Last week's gold exports to South America, which were too late to figure in last week's statement, would account for only a gmail part of the discrepancy. Holidy and vacation requirements are supposed to have made some local demands upon the banks. The increase in loans, although small, detracted from the benefit of the cash increase to the surplus, which was recuperated by only $62.00. A rise in the discount rate at London and a sharp secrease in sterling at Parls and Berlin were calculated to increase the pressure for gold upon New York.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK.
Natrowing and irregular fluctuations have marked the week's operations in the Narrowing and irregular fluctuations have marked the week's operations in the stock market. The renewed decline early in the week after last week's sharp recovery was viewed with some anxiety, lest it might indicate a renewal of the liquidation, which would carry prices to a lower level than before and precipitated new burdens upon the market. But support developed before prices got down to last week's low level, and the uncovering of fresh stop-loss orders and a new wiping out of margins were thus avoided, such orders having been largely cleared off brokers books by the previous decline.

The professional operators in the market pretty generally accepted this as a demonstration that large and urgent liquidation had been completed for the time, but that any attempt to lift prices to a higher range was likely to encounter fresh pressure to sell. Bear tactics to depress prices, on the other hand, seem to meet buying orders of a substantial character, which takes stocks out of the market for investment, and thus fortifies the market.

This kind of buying, however, shows itself extremely cautious in following any advance in prices. The natural result is the stuggish and waiting market which developed in the latter part of the week.

WALL STREET GOSSIP.

Current discussion in Wall street concerns itself as much with the sources and motives of the recent extensive selling of stocks as with the prospects of the future.

motives of the recent extensive selling of stocks as with the prospects of the future Mr. Morgan's pronouncement that the linguestion of new securities would wark itself out in time with no harm resuring where the undigested securities were inherently sound has not availed en Urely to reassure sentiment in view of dis-closures regarding some of the recent cor-poration formations. But that much has been achieved towards the process of di-gestion as a result of the liquidation in the stock market is believed. So far as it has resulted in the repay-ment of loans for holding new securities and the taking up by ownership of his se-curities, the process of digestion may be said to have been effected and the overex-tension of credits relieved. So far as this process has been completed, the problem of the future must deal with the soundness of the securities or of the industries which they are intended to represent. It must be allowed that a feeling of anxiety on this point deeply underlies the depression in the stock market. tirely to reassure sentiment in view of dis point deeply underlies the depression in the stock market.

The resort to the courts by dissatisfied participants in the United States Ship-building organization and the charges and recriminations made in that suit have af-fected sentiment toward the whole group of industrial securities. The fear of exces-sive capitalization is the more effective on account of the current doubts over the in-dustrial future.

LABOR OUTLOOK.

With the general unrest of labor and the certainty of future demands for higher wages, with the political unsettlement of a national campaign in sight, the anxiety over the labor outlook remains a dominat-

Opening prices in wheat were strong tolay in the face of easier cables. Bullish reports from the Southwest, together with re-ports of lack of rain in the Northwest, rused a good general demand at the start, and July opened 4c to 4c higher at 75%c to 7674, and Sept. 1-624c higher at 75c to 756

Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 25500 bu. Primary receipts were 221.700 bu., against 422.800 bu. a year ago. the billish sentiment in corn, and there was good buying at the start by shorts and cummission-houses. Opening prices were strong, but as the session advanced the market became easier, due to a liberal selling by pit traders. The market closed about where it left off last night, July being unchanged at 45%, after selling between 45% and 50%.

Despite the claims of small country offerings, receipts continued liberal at 637 cars, with 68 of contract grade.

OATS.

OATS. Trading in oats was characterized by a strong demand for July from shorts, which caused a good advance in that month, and by the strength in the December option. Four crop prospects were the main influence. After selling between 3°4c and 40°4c. July closed 16°4c higher at 40c. September was unchanged at 30°4c, after ranging between 30°4c 35°4c and 30°4c.
